65A Occupational Therapist
As an Army Occupational Therapist, you'll use your skills and creativity to provide a range of services to care for Soldiers and their families in a variety of settings around the world. You will provide upper extremity evaluation and treatment, work site assessments for injury reduction, mental health interventions, and rehabilitation for diverse conditions such as amputee or closed head injuries. Opportunities abound for clinical research and clinical education. You could be located in one of our state-of-the art hospitals, or deployed with a Combat Support Hospital, or the Army's Combat Stress Control Detachments. You will receive training and experience opportunities that are unparalleled in the civilian community.

65B Physical Therapist
As an Army Physical Therapist, your primary mission will be to provide neuromusculoskeletal evaluation, intervention, and case management for Soldiers and family members. You might perform this mission at one of the Army's state-of-the-art hospitals, a troop medical clinic, or with a Combat Support Hospital, Ranger Battalion, Special Forces Group, or Brigade Combat Team. As a member of the Army Medical Team, you'll work side-by-side with your physician, nurse, PA, and OT peers to provide the highest quality health care. Professionally rewarding, Army Physical Therapy provides challenges, opportunities, and experiences that are tough to find in civilian practice.

65C Dietitians
As the Army's nutrition expert, you'll focus on training Soldiers and ensure they are Fit to Fight. As an integral member on the Army Medical Team, you'll promote sports nutrition and fitness, provide critical care nutrition therapy to Soldiers in a deployed Combat Support Hospital, direct nutrition services for clients with a variety of nutrition related diseases, and maintain the health of the extended Army Family. You will also be an advisor in Soldier foodservice operations, and a leader in healthcare foodservice management, clinical research, and nutrition education.

65D Physician Assistant
As a Physician Assistant, your primary role will be as a Field Medical Officer in an Airborne Infantry Battalion, Armored Cavalry Squadron, or one of many Combat Arms or Combat Support units. You will demonstrate a high degree of personal
